Many local citizens in the New Lenox area as well as throughout the Lincoln-Way community high school district are making plans for a John Oster appreciation dinner to be held at the high school Saturday night, June 9th. Mr. Oster is retiring after 16 years as superintendent of the New Lenox Elementary schools.

Recently a local committee met to work out the plans and arrangements for this testimonial dinner. The committee was composed of the following: Roy Pfeiffer, program chairman; Mrs. Cathy Webb and Mrs. Lois Aldridge, representing the Lincoln-Way PTA and Band Boosters, in charge of the decorations and invitations; Harlow Jensen, representing the board of education of the New Lenox grade school; Ronald Vondrasek and Ronald Whitaker representing the Lions club and New Lenox Chamber of Commerce, co-chairmen of the ticket committee; Frank Goetschel, representing the Lions club and Lincoln-Way high school, chairman of the dinner committee, Supt. Leroy Wright of Frankfort and Supt. Ken Johnson of Manhattan, Mike Kruck, assistant superintendent of New Lenox and Hunter Chapman, superintendent of the Lincoln-Way high school, will be in charge of contacting the school principals and superintendents in the Will county area.

Dinner tickets will be sold for $2.50 and can be obtained from any of the members of the committee or at the Lincoln-Way high school office.

ARTHUR MACKAY
Mackay Takes Over English
Dept. at L-W

Arthur Mackay, 417 Henderson ave., Joliet, presently on the staff of Lincoln-Way high school, has been appointed chairman of the English dept. for the ensuing school year. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Al Dalkowski who accepted a position in his home state of Indiana.

Thomas Flanagan, sophomore wrestling coach and math teacher, has been given the varsity wrestling coach assignment to replace Ronald Larsen who resigned to accept the head wrestling coaching position at Bloom Twp. high school. Mr. Flanagan's 1961-1962 sophomore team had the finest record in the history of the school, compiling a 16-1 record.

GOP Women Seek More Members

The Mokena Branch of the Will County Republican Women's club invites all Republican women to a membership tea on Sunday, May 27, from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Robert E. Mackey home. The Mackey residence is located south of Marley Road in Arby Hills. (Take Leila Drive to Stephanie Lane. The Mackey residence is on the corner of Jean Road and Stephanie Lane.)

All members of the Mokena branch are urged to bring guests. Mrs. Ralph C. Murphy of Joliet, chairman of the Women's division of the Will county Republican central committee, accompanied by several other members of the committee, will be special guests of the Mokena group.

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER—The junior-senior prom is a treasured moment in the hectic rush of commencement and the one for Lincoln-Way students last week-end was no exception. The dance was held at Silver Lake Country club, Orland Park and a few of the many couples attending—by the magic of the camera lens—were made to stand still. It is too bad there is not something that will do the same for time. (Semmler Press photo)

Clark Would Speed Appeal in Tax Collection Case

The Illinois attorney general, William Clark, is seeking to expedite a final decision in the tax collection case emanating from Will county where two justices of the peace have taken the position that they lack jurisdiction to handle cases involving the collection of personal property taxes.

The appellate court of the second district, to which the case was appealed after the Will county circuit court had ruled the justices did have jurisdiction, handed down a decision some weeks ago finding that JP's could not collect taxes; that tax suits lay solely within the jurisdiction of the county court; that it was so expressed in the constitution.

The attorney general is not so concerned about whether justices of the peace can or cannot collect taxes and he is not too concerned at this time about the collection of personal property taxes.

What worries the attorney general is that the decision of the appellate court is so broad—holding as it does that the county court is the only court with jurisdiction in tax collection—that the entire tax system in Illinois could be adversely affected.

For instance the State of Illinois frequently files suit to collect sales tax. In most counties it was said such suits are filed in the circuit court.

The attorney general has filed a motion in the appellate court asking it to vacate its findings in the Will county suit and send it directly to the state supreme court because there is a constitutional question involved.

The case from Will county had its beginning in the refusal of Robert Buchar, of Joliet, and George Sangmeister, of Mokena, both attorneys and both elected justices of the peace under the new JP law under which justices are county officers and paid by the county—in their refusal to handle suits to collect personal property taxes. They contend they lack jurisdiction.

The state's attorney filed a mandamus suit in circuit court and that tribunal ordered the two justices to proceed with the collection of personal property taxes. The two JP's thru their attorneys John Cirricione and William Penn, appealed the case and the appellate court decided in their favor.

Mr. Cirricione said today that would not oppose the motion filed in the appellate court by Attorney General Clark but went on to say that the constitutional question was only an indirect matter as far as the original case was concerned.

The question of jurisdiction has also been raised in Cook county in a friendly suit brought against Leland Rayson, an attorney and justice of Bremen township. Rayson refused to handle the collection of personal property taxes and a circuit court judge has ordered him to do so. The case is to be appealed but it is understood an effort will be made to take it direct to the supreme court.

If the appellate court grants Clark's motion it is possible, attorneys say, that the case might get to the supreme court in June—otherwise it is anyone's guess when the court would get it.

In the Will county case State's Attorney Frank H. Masters a motion pending before the appellate court for a rehearing of the case. If this should be denied Masters said he would then ask leave of the state supreme court to bring the case there and if granted would then perfect an appeal.

Clark would bypass all this but first he will have to persuade the appellate court to fall in with his suggestions.

Two hundred fifty friends attended the dinner for Mrs. Elizabeth Cappel, held on Sunday, May 20, at Valley View Farm, honoring her thirty-three years in the Mokena public school system. Louis Bottino, assistant superintendent of the Joliet public schools; Verne Cracker, county superintendent of schools; John Oster, superintendent of New Lenox schools; Hunter Chapman, superintendent of Lincoln-Way High school; Minnie Pester, who has taught many years in the Mokena public school; and Norval Robinson, president of the Mokena school board, paid tribute to Mrs. Cappel.

Guests were present from Mokena, Lockport, Aurora, Frankfort, Chicago, Joliet, New Lenox, Downers Grove, Western Springs, and Manhattan. A telegram was received during

ELIZABETH CAPPEL the dinner from Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Teague of Kansas City. Trooper Nabs Teens in Stolen Car After Chase

Two 15-year-old New Lenox boys, Robert W. Taylor, Route 1, and Thomas C. Morrison, 5 Plaza Drive, were arrested last Friday night in a stolen car after a long chase at high speed by State Trooper James Brockman.

The two youths were brought to the county jail and later released to their parents. The case has been turned over to county juvenile authorities. The car in which the pair was riding was stolen from James A. Whalen, U.S. 30, New Lenox, according to the report at the sheriff's office.

Brockman stated that he saw the car traveling at high speed on Francis road. The trooper took up the chase. He said that Taylor was driving and the Morrison boy kept watching the police car out of the rear window. There was a stretch, Brockman said, when the fugitives were travelling 110 miles an hour.

They were still going at excessive speed when they ran the stop sign at Gougar road and almost rolled over. Apparently the engine killed and Brockman was able to get his car in front of them before they could get going.

The incident occurred about 10:40 Friday night. Taylor is also subject to the charge of operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

Girl Killed When Auto Overturns

A Kankakee girl, 21-year-old Violet Sue Reynolds of 319 1/2 South Fifth street, Kankakee, was killed Sunday morning May 20 when the car she was driving went out of control, left the pavement and rolled over. The accident occurred on U. S. 45 near 192nd street, about two miles east of Mokena.

Miss Reynolds was pinned beneath the wreckage. Her 19-year-old brother, Robert T., who was asleep when the accident occurred was taken to Silver Cross hospital where he was treated for minor hurts and released.

The girl was brought to the hospital in the Baskerville ambulance and pronounced dead on arrival.

State troopers investigating the accident say that it is possible that Miss Reynolds may have fallen asleep. She was traveling south.

State police were called to U. S. 45 last Saturday to investigate another accident. This one involved two cars and occurred half a mile north of U. S. 30. Troopers ticketed 46-year-old Cecil Patterson of Frankfort, charging him with making an improper turn and causing an accident. While there was no actual contact between Patterson's car and the other vehicle the other driver, 24-year-old Harold L. King, of 1937 South Wisconsin, Berwyn, had to steer into the ditch to avoid a collision.

No Backlog of Cases in New Lenox Police Court

The report of Police Magistrate Ronald Whitaker, New Lenox, for the fiscal year which began May 1, 1961 and ended April 30, 1962 shows that of the 503 cases filed in his court 489 have been disposed of, leaving 14 cases pending.

Fees and fines collected in the year totaled $5,628.84.

Of this amount $4,719 was turned over to the village of New Lenox and $800.50 went to Will county. Of the remainder $53.10 was paid to constables and officers for serving processes; $50.24 was paid to parties in actions and $6 went to jurors.

Of the cases filed in the magistrate's court in the year, 469 were concerned with traffic violations and 459 of them have been disposed of, leaving 10 traffic cases among the 14 cases pending. Magistrate Whitaker has had 10 civil cases and has disposed of nine. Of the 22 criminal cases brought in his court only two are still pending. Two cases involving alleged violations of ordinances were filed—one disposed of, one is still pending.

Fines for traffic violations in the village totaled $2,483 and fees that went to the village amounted to $1,251. The village also received $985 from bonds posted in traffic cases which were forfeited. The county collected $474 in traffic fines and $326.50 in fines in criminal cases.

Magistrate Whitaker performed one marriage ceremony.

The village pays the magistrate a salary of $1,800 a year; rent for the courtroom is $900 and supplies will run about $300, so the village cleared $1,719.

Mokena Hires New Law Firm

Raymond Hoolehan, village attorney for Mokena for the past 10 years has tendered his resignation to Mayor Charles Swanberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoolehan sold their residence here and in the fall will move closer to Chicago, probably Oak Park. Meanwhile they will spend the summer in Wisconsin and Mr. Hoolehan pointed out in his letter that because of this he would be unable to attend to the legal affairs of the village.

He asked to be relieved of his duties immediately and pursuant to this request the village board has approved appointment of the law firm of Galowich and Galowich of Joliet to represent Mokena in legal affairs. The firm, formed in 1960, is made up of Gerald S. and Ronald H. Galowich, twin brothers that look very much alike. They are graduates of the University of Illinois law school. They were well recommended to the village, Mayor Swanberg said.

Sidewalk, Streets Occupy Time of Frankfort Board

Sidewalks and streets held the attention of the Frankfort village board for practically the whole of its meeting Monday night.

The sidewalk, about which most of the conversation centered, runs along the east side of White street. There has been a sidewalk along the east side of White street for many years but when the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. was installing its cables along that stretch the sidewalk was broken up. It is now being replaced.

Looking to the future when curb and gutter will be constructed the new sidewalk is being built at a higher grade so it will be level with the crown of the road when it is resurfaced with a three-inch coat of

Plan Memorial Day Rites in Cemeteries of Area

People will pause next Wednesday, May 30, to pay their respects to America's war dead. Memorial Day has also become an occasion for people to visit cemeteries and decorate graves of family members and friends whose deaths had no connection with war but primarily Memorial Day is set aside to honor the men and women of the various armed services of the United States who were killed in action or who have since died.

In Mokena Chaplain (Major) George M. Lumley will deliver a brief memorial address in each of the three cemeteries, St. Mary's, St. John's and Pioneer, salutes will be fired by a color guard from the Nike base at Orland Park and taps sounded. There will be no services at the VFW hall, altho the parade will start from there at 11 o'clock. It will form at 10:30. The Grade School Band, Boy and Girl Scouts, VFW and Auxiliary, and the Domino Color Guard from Frankfort American Legion post will take part in the parade. The VFW and its Auxiliary will conduct their memorial rites at the veterans section in St. John's cemetery.

At Frankfort Bobzin-Swinford post, American Legion, will be in charge of the parade that is to be held at 10 o'clock with the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Frankfort Grade School Band, the Dominos and the veterans and their auxiliary members, plus the village officials as participants. After a wreath is laid at the veterans' monument at the village hall the children will board buses and the procession then move on to the cemetery. The Rev. James Parker, of the Frankfort Methodist church will deliver a Memorial Day address at the cemetery. The graves of all the veterans there will be decorated with flags and flowers by the school children.

At New Lenox it was said that the VFW has planned its usual observance of the day. There will be a parade in the morning with services at the cemetery.

grade but finally agreed to go along if the grade raise was held to six inches and the village moved a culvert and fixed the shoulder so he could park in front of his house. The board agreed to this. Carroll also asked that his driveway be fixed for easier access and exit and asked why the telephone company did not repair driveways where they were torn up. By that time the hassle had been going on for more than an hour and tempers were wearing a bit thin, and Mr. Carroll left without an answer to his question.

The village plans to bank the street side of the sidewalk with fill. The board adopted a resolution covering the maintenance of arterial streets and one short piece of non-arterial street, which is permissible, thru appropriations from the motor fuel tax fund. This fund is collected by the state and shared with municipalities. Roughly speaking a municipality's share runs about $5 per person according to an official U. S. census.

The resolution adopted Monday has been forwarded to Springfield and if approved bids will be taken. The project covers scarifying, application of additional rock, and sealing. The streets covered are Locust, from Nebraska to Pacific; Maple from Oregon to Pacific; Oak from Utah to Pacific; the end of Pacific street and Center street from the E. J. & E. to Station 5.

The estimated cost, including engineering fees and advertising is placed at $4,900. The village had a balance of $7,403.72 in its motor fuel tax fund as of April 30, this year. The village also will readvertise for bids to complete the east end of Kansas street. The money for this project has already been set aside and is not included in the April balance.

Turtle Derby Big Success at Frankfort

Tinney Bruner is name of the turtle entered in the Frankfort Lions club turtle derby by Frank Esenbrandt. Mike was the titular jockey. Second prize, a transistor radio, went to Dean Warning, who was in charge of the entry from Warning Chevrolet. Third and fourth prizes were stuffed lions, won by Kathleen Knippel and Janet Brandau respectively. Other heat winners were Sherree McLemore, Carol Dean, Terrence Flynn, Paul Hinspeter, Steve Kohlhaegbe. There were more than 170 in this, the third annual Lions club turtle derby.

Proceeds will be used to meet expenses for the small fry baseball teams, roofing the shelter house that the SPC is erecting in the village park, and other community projects that the Lions support.

Grant Geuther, Lions president, commended all the committees and individuals for bringing success to the event.

Please, No Trailer Camp

It is to be hoped that the Cook county state's attorney will appeal the trailer camp case and get a reversal of the ruling handed down in the Cook county circuit court affecting the present and future development of the area.

By his ruling a circuit court judge has spread a welcome mat to trailer camp operators who have been endeavoring to get in the Orland Park area for several years.

If a trailer camp is permitted to open on 159th street east of U.S. 45 we fear that the idea will spread along that highway. There are various subdivisions in the vicinity who would be affected by a trailer camp--adversely residents claim--and if such camps spread on eastward Tinley Park also would be affected.

Originally the county zoning board and the board of county commissioners rejected a petition which would have reclassified the property so a trailer camp could be established. The village of Orland Park, the Orland Center and the Carl Sandburg high school boards, various subdividers and individual property owners protested the move for a trailer camp. Their objections were heeded. The petition was denied.

Then the promoters went to court and emerged as victors. The First National Bank of Blue Island appears as the trustee for the tract of land involved.

It would be difficult indeed, if not impossible, from a legal standpoint, for any of the objectors to get in the case now that it has been decided in court but the state's attorney's office can still appeal from the circuit court's ruling if he will.

At a meeting of the Orland Park village board last week a resolution was adopted urging the state's attorney to take an appeal and a copy of such resolution was sent to Daniel Ward, the Cook county prosecutor.

The Sandburg high school board and the Orland Center school board have taken similar action and it is said that many individuals also plan voicing such sentiments in letters to Mr. Ward.

The school boards point out that trailer camps create a demand for services that cost tremendous sums of money but of which the recipients pay very little, if any.

The trailer camp covered in the current court case is said to be planning to accommodate 370 trailers. Experts figure that the schools can expect to draw about 11/2 children per trailer. This would necessitate either a new school at Orland Center or an addition to the present plant.

Trailer camps would also impose a greater pupil load on Sandburg high school, it was said, and there are many who claim such camps depreciated property generally for a radius of several miles.

Some of the homes that are going up in rural subdivisions are bad enough but trailer camps can be even worse. We don't know what kind of a trailer camp is planned for the Orland area but we can't believe it will be an improvement.

We hope State's Attorney Ward gives the green light for an appeal and that it is successful. The community can do without a trailer camp.

that's THE LAW

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF
ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

IN COOPERATION WITH THIS NEWSPAPER

Separate systems of law for the regulation of armed forces have been in existence since the beginning of human history. The ancient Persians, Greeks, and Romans all had organized armies which used legal systems separate and apart from their regular civilian legal institutions. This custom of specialized military law has continued to the present time and is now found in the United States Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The basis for military justice in the American legal system is found in our constitution which provides that congress shall have the authority "to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces." The uniform Code of Military Justice was enacted under this authority and this same code applies to all branches of the armed forces. The code covers all phases of criminal law, but does not govern property rights, suits for damages, and similar private matters which are left to the civilian courts.

Military justice is administered primarily thru courts-martial. There are three types of courts-martial: the summary court-martial which consists of one officer; the special court-martial, which consists of at least three officers; and the general court-martial, which consists of at least five officers.

The members of a court-martial function as both judge and jury and reach decisions by vote after hearing the evidence. Enlisted men may require that the court trying them include enlisted men, otherwise only officers sit on courts-martial. The members of the court are always superior in military rank to the person being tried.

Before a person is brought before a court-martial for a serious offense, the matter is first examined by an independent investigating officer.

This investigation is similar to a civilian grand jury, except that under military law the person being investigated has a right to participate in the investigation, while civilian grand jury proceedings are usually secret. After investigation the charges are either dropped or referred to a court-martial for trial.

The procedure of a court-martial is similar to a civilian criminal trial. The accused is presumed to be innocent and the charges must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt before guilt can be established. The accused is entitled to counsel, may cross-examine the witnesses against him, and may present his own witnesses. He does not have to testify, but may if he wishes to.

In military trials for serious offenses, the accused is furnished counsel at government expense. He may select, without charge, any readily available military person as counsel. He may also engage civilian counsel of his own choosing at his own expense.

In the event of conviction, the record of trial will be carefully reviewed by higher military authorities who are similar to civilian appeal courts. The accused is entitled to government - furnished counsel for these appeals. At each level of appeal the sentence may be reduced or eliminated, but can never be increased.

In addition to courts-martial, the armed services maintain discipline through punishments imposed by commanding officers without formal trial. This is known as non-judicial punishment and is strictly limited to certain minor offenses and punishments. Depending upon the exact circumstances, the accused person usually may refuse non-judicial punishment by demanding a trial by court-martial.

Modern weed killing chemicals, when properly handled, offer a safe, easy method of controlling poison ivy. One of the best chemicals for control of this weed pest is Amitrol. It is available in aerosol cans that are convenient for treating small areas. Commercial preparations containing 50% Amitrol may also be obtained. They may be used in a small hand sprayer or in large spray equipment. For more information on control of poison ivy and also the loan of a film strip on poison ivy control, contact the Extension office.

Several demonstrations of interest to farmers are located throughout the county. The oat variety plot is located on the Lester Sayers farm on Wolf Road just south of 159th Street. The chemical weed control demonstration in corn and soybeans will be placed on the Herb Kohl farm, Cicero Avenue just south of Vollmer Road.

Several new, improved flowering quinces, resulting from University of Illinois research, offer home owners a greater selection of these ornamentals, says a U. of I. landscape horticulturist.

Pre-emergence chemicals are modern weed-fighting tools. But know your weed problem and how to fight it or you may be tying up your money needlessly, says a University of Illinois agronomist.

If the soil sticks to the shovel when you work your garden, it's too wet to handle, says a University of Illinois vegetable specialist. Research shows that working wet ground destroys the physical structure of the soil and makes it harder to handle later in the season.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Mother's Day is over and Father's Day is coming up. While observance of these days has become a custom in the United States and Mother's Day is further recognized by an Act of Congress we cannot claim to have a patent on the idea.

"Honor thy father and mother" is one of the Ten Commandments. No day or days were set aside for such honoring so it must be that it was intended to be a permanent thing. It doesn't hurt however, to get in an extra lick or two of regard on special occasions.

Mother's Day, as such, originated with Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. Her original recommendation of observance of the day called for sons and daughters to wear a carnation--a red one if the mother was living, a white one if dead. It is quite likely that she also recommended that thru the spoken or written word or some act of love special attention be given to the living mothers.

In 1914 the congress of the United States passed an act giving official sanction of Mother's Day and setting the second Sunday in May as the day of observance.

Thus one notes that the florists and telegraph companies (the Postal was operating then) were the first to benefit commercially from Mother's Day. Long distance telephone service left much to be desired then so if one wanted to send a message fast over long distances one telegraphed -- and there were no Mother's Day cards.

Seems odd, doesn't it to recall a time when there were no Mother's Day cards. Well the card makers have made up for it. Not only can one get cards for mothers on Mother's Day but for every other female -- grandmothers, aunts, sisters, cousins, landladies or friends.

It makes no difference whether they are mothers or not. It seems that the only requirement to be eligible to receive gifts on mother's day is to be a female.

And with women engaged in practically every line of endeavor today there is no limit as to what may rate as a Mother's Day gift. The florists, confectioners, the textile trades and the makers of household appliances and furnishings no longer have it made when it comes to Mother's Day.

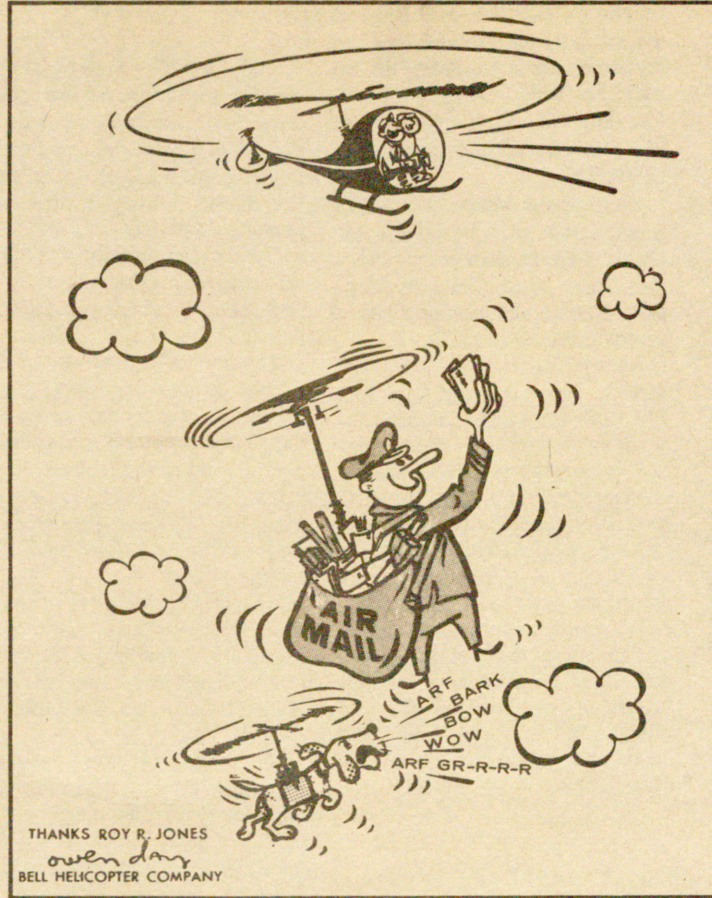

"Give mother a drill press," an ad may read. "Make mother happy with a speed boat," begs a maker of such things, while the table saw and power tool manufacturers, and the makers of anvils and blacksmith forges, point out how their products will lighten the work load of a modern mother.

Automobile makers urge a new car as thoughtful gift for mother, but then they never let up -- they are using mother as bait at Christmas, New Year's, Valentine Day, Easter, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor

Wednesday evening, May 23rd at the Rich Biesboer farm on Glenwood-Lansing road, just east of Glenwood-Dyer road, Glenwood, Ill. Vegetable growers are invited to attend. Specialists from the University in the fields of entomology, pathology, and horticulture will serve as resource people for the field meeting. Farmers are encouraged to bring plant and/or insect specimens for identification.

If you are growing pines for Christmas trees, you will be interested in the following: The Extension Service is conducting a Christmas tree shearing demonstration on June 8, at 1:30 p. m. at the William Kerchbaum, Sr., farm, Schaumburg Road, one half mile east of Route 59, near Schaumburg. A sign will be posted. If you are interested in attending, contact me.

Day and Thanksgiving, the vacation months, plus a reminder that a new convertible would be just dandy for her birthday.

Why the truck manufacturers don't get into the act is difficult to fathom. They really have something to offer because if mother gets everything tagged as suitable gifts for her day she would need a semi-trailer to collect them.

Pets, jewelry, dresses, suits, liquor, carpeting, stocks, bonds, washers, dryers, egg beaters, golf clubs, guns, diaries (CAUTION: Never give a gun to a woman who keeps a diary or a diary to a gal who owns a gun; as headlines often attest, guns and diaries can be a lethal combination) credit cards, a trip around the world, a house, cigarettes, cigars, crackerjack, beer, ice or roller skates, garden tools and anything else that is neither too hot nor too heavy, are all suitable gifts for Mother's Day, according to the people who make or sell them.

May 25 is the frost free date in Chicagoland. This means frost has not occurred later than this date, and it is safe to set the most tender annual plants outside. With danger of frost past, next week-end will be a busy time for gardeners.

From the looks of the many garden centers in the area, you will have a tremendous number of varieties to select from. Some of the newer annuals offered this spring have better colors, greater vigor and more desirable growth habits than some of the older types. Annuals form the heart of any garden. By choosing varieties carefully you can enjoy a continuous display of blooms from spring until killing frost in the fall.

Here are some of this year's outstanding varieties that you might like to try. The number one annual for Illinois conditions is the petunia. Choose from the newer F1 hybrids, such as Sugar Plum, Cherry Tart, Calypso, Aristocrat, Pink Magic, Polaris, Coral Satin and Blue Magic. The petite series of dwarf French marigolds are highly reliable. You'll like Spun Gold--a low growing type with golden yellow chrysanthemum-like flowers. Toreador ranks as one of the finest tall-growing forms. Rosy O'Day is a unique lavender-rose shade of sweet alyssum. Among the white-flowered varieties, Carpet of Snow is still the most popular.

In snapdragons, the Rocket series are probably the best choice. They are unusually vigorous and large flowering. Soon after the old flower stems are removed, new blooms appear in a few weeks. Some of the double-flowered types, such as Vanguard, and the tetra-ploid varieties are also quite reliable in this climate. Toreador and Forest Fire Improved are two outstanding varieties of cockscomb that should merit a place in your garden.

Gloriosa daisies add bold accents of yellow, orange and bronze to home plantings. They come in single and double forms. An added advantage is that they are hardy, although they bloom the first year like annuals.

All-America selections are award-winning varieties that have performed outstandingly in most parts of the country. Many of the varieties mentioned above have merited this award in recent years. A colorful All-America winner for 1962 is dianthus Bravo with brilliant red blooms and low-growing habit. Dark Opal, a decorative purplish-bronze variety of

Washington News Letter

BY CONG. N.M. MASON

BLANK CHECKS: In olden days Kings always controlled the nation's money bags. Today our President controls the nation's treasury -- our nation's money bags -- thru blank checks issued to the President by the congress.

Congress under the constitution is entrusted with the authority to levy taxes and to decide thru the appropriation process how the money raised shall be spent. In this complex day and age, however, Congress has formed the habit of handing over enormous unfettered billions to the President to spend as he sees fit.

President Kennedy now presses for more and more and larger and larger blank check authority. In fact, in the last session he pressed for backdoor spending in his foreign aid bill. At this session he is making a determined fight to get congress to hand over to him the congressional responsibility to control and regulate foreign trade, tariff control.

The constitution places the authority and responsibility over both federal finances and tariff regulation in the congress. Congress has abdicated these powers to the executive. These powers must be returned to the congress where they are truly vested and belong. ANOTHER BUDGET DEFICIT YEAR:

The cards are on the table now -- face up. That $463 million surplus the Administration predicted for next year's budget is out the window as expected. Instead, we can expect another huge deficit, probably running into the billions. The bleak news became apparent at the President's latest news conference when he admitted it would take some mighty big "ifs" to preserve any semblance of a balanced budget.

Even the most optimistic administration economists are conceding privately that the President's estimate of a $570 billion economy this year, on which he based his promise of a balanced budget, is fading like the winter snow.

It appears to me that the administration has three choices: (1) Curtail spending -- the obvious and, of course, correct choice; (2) Raise taxes; (3) Continue deficit spending until the nation is bankrupt and collapses.

Which choice would YOU make? SANTA CLAUS FOR THE WORLD: Senator Byrd, the watchdog of the federal budget, says we have become the world's Santa Claus. In a speech before the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Byrd stated the federal government would have an $8 billion deficit this year and between a $4 billion and a $5 billion deficit next year.

Byrd also said that in the last 12 years we have had 11 deficits in our international balance of payments, 8 deficits in our domestic budget, and we have lost $8 billion of our gold supply. He asked, "How much longer can we continue to act both as banker and policeman for the free world?"

A pertinent question to ask the business men of the nation, don't you think?

IS A "NO" VOTE CONSTRUCTIVE? Occasionally friends ask me if it is frustrating or tiresome to vote "No" on so many of the administration's spending requests. My answer is that it is not a negative approach to be in favor of fiscal responsibility, to ask for a balanced budget, to protect the people's money.

Persons who are truly negative in their thinking are those who would be wildly liberal with someone else's money. I believe that the best positive policy is one that supports constitutional, limited government; that puts the people's interest first; that protects our economy in order to offer more jobs and greater opportunity for all the people; that insures the soundness of our dollar and preserves the solvency of our currency. My approach to a positive policy is a course that places the best interest of America and its citizens above all other considerations.

A TIMELY QUOTE: "Government subsidies to inefficiently eventually become government taxes upon efficiency."

Business & Finance

By MAURICE P. ANGLAND
Last week, the Readers Digest carried an article on the health hazards associated with cigarette smoking. The article was somewhat in the nature of a condensation of articles on the subject, which have recently appeared in British medical journals.

Research for these articles is reported to have been rather extensive. As a result, there has been new legislation in England, to control advertising and other sales efforts which might appeal to the youth of the nation.

There are reports that there are serious efforts being made, to severely reduce use of cigarettes.

There have been many "smoking scares" in this country, but it has been observed that they have comparatively small impact after publication of the adverse findings.

Stock market reaction to such reports has been temporarily depressing on tobacco stocks. However, this report of British research is expected to have a heavier impact than some previous studies.

A fair number of substantial institutional investors as a matter of policy do not invest in tobacco stocks. Other investors have been partial to these securities due to their ability to show a growth that has been closely tied to population increases as to earnings stability. This group have also been generous in dividend pay out.

Some of the leading investment services express doubt that the inflationary pressures have subsided to the point expressed by some of our public figures. They point out that this belief is strengthened by the demand for higher grade stocks by pension and profit sharing funds which are growing fast.

It is also noted that the state of New York State now permits life insurance companies to set up segregated pension funds which can be completely invested in high grade stocks. For the first time, the state of North Carolina has voted to invest a portion of its pension funds in common stocks.

Most of the large institutional investors regard investment in common stocks as a part of their regular investment program and are buyers on dips in the market. It is always expected that market declines of the kind we have seen, will carry down rising markets carry prices too high.

Several investment services advise, that stocks have been carried down to a point where further down side risk is small. United Business Service states, "Corporate earnings, business volume, credit, and other fundamentals have seldom been more favorable."

As to the leading stocks and their ownership, it has been estimated that a third or more of the common stock of some of our top corporations, is now owned by institutional investors on a basis which is permanent until their analysts advise sale. These holdings and the constant increase in investments of growing pension and profit sharing funds, is expected to soon be evident by smaller trading supply of this type of stock.

Standard Poor Investment Service points out that investors often miss great opportunities by keeping too close to the ticker tape and temporary market fluctuations. They point out that ebb and flow of market prices is a normal pattern.

Ticket Sale Opens for Horse Show

Tickets are now on sale by the St. James Hospital Auxiliary to the Triple R Ranch charity horse show, Mrs. George Biltgen, 20501 Hellenic dr., Olympia Fields, ticket chairman, announced.

General admission to the show, to be presented at the Triple R Ranch, 1 1/2 miles south of Frankfort on June 23 and 24 is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children for either Saturday or Sunday. Reserved seat tickets at $5, good for BOTH days, will also be offered.

Both English and western horses will perform during the two-day competition in hunting, jumping, halter and performance events such as match-racing, barrel racing, cutting and roping. Some of the events are scheduled in the Triple R's new indoor arena and all of the outdoor facilities -- arenas and race courses -- will be "christened" at the June show.

All of the proceeds of the show will be donated to the auxiliary for the benefit of St. James hospital, according to Thomas C. McKay, owner of the ranch.

Husbands:

your best investment is your wife!

Wall Street is the street for investment. But the street you live on has some smart investors, too. You, for one. Your investment in your wife is worth nearly 10,000 a year! A pipe dream? The facts will back it up, men. At the going rate, with no overtime and no padded expense accounts—your wife could be earning $188.85 a week for the work she does for you. That's the kind of an investment a wife is. The best investment you ever made.

What do you get for this hypothetical salary—this stupendous stipend, which you don't have to pay? You get a head cook and bottle washer. And a dietician, baker, waitress, private nurse, baby sitter, laundress, hostess, chambermaid, purchasing agent, secretary, general housekeeper, gardener, chauffeur and recreation director. And more, too. That doesn't even count intangible benefits of companionship—a priceless value. Her job is a lonely one, with little or no adult company to brighten an endless day. And seldom is her job singled out for praise. It's taken for granted.

But she is expected to be proficiency plus. She must be a good driver to be trusted to chauffeur a children's car-pool. She has to be a good business manager to handle the family budget. She must be a good dietician and nurse to safeguard the family health.

And the hours! Seven days a week! Studies at universities and research centers show that the average mother of growing children works from 80 to 100 hours a week including child supervision. And she must regularly perform some 21 jobs in operating a home. (Some do as many as 30!)

Luckily, a wife doesn't measure her job in terms of an hourly wage. She takes understandable pride and joy in working for her family, out of love.

Because, if you use national averages for wages paid for standard wifely duties, and hours spent at each task—you come out with a figure close to $10,000 a year, just for running a home. As a smart businessman and investor, she's worth appreciating—wouldn't you say!

Experts Sat Most Bees and Wasps are "Loners"

DAVID H. THOMPSON
Senior Naturalist
(Forest Preserve District of Cook County)

Our most familiar wasps and bees live in colonies -- the paper wasps, hornets, yellow jackets, bumblebees, and the imported honeybee. These are called social insects because the young and adults live together with a division of labor among the members of a colony. Surprisingly, these species that live in an organized society are outnumbered -- ten or more to one -- by kinds that lead solitary lives. Among the latter, as a rule, a fertilized female gathers enough food to feed one larva, lays an egg on it, seals it up -- then repeats the process -- but never sees her offspring.

Those fidgety, little, thread-waisted cement workers, the Mud Daubers, which plaster their nests on the underside of roofs and in other sheltered places, are seen more often than other solitary wasps. The female of the most common species seeks the edge of a pool or puddle where she mixes mud and saliva into a pellet of mortar. Making trip after trip, she slowly builds an inch-long tube. Then she hunts spiders. Each one is paralyzed by a sting in the main nerve center and stored in the adobe tube. When the tube is nearly full of helpless but still living spiders, she lays an egg, mixes more cement and seals the door. In this way the wasp larva has a supply of fresh spider meat to eat until it is fully grown.

The Female Potter Wasp molds small mud jugs reinforced with hair which she attaches to the twigs of shrubs. Instead of spiders, she stocks her pantry with the paralyzed caterpillars of the cankerworm moth. Of the many other kinds of mud wasps, some use knotholes, keyholes or any small cavity they can find in which they seal an egg with food. The brilliantly colored Cuckoo Wasps, like the cuckoos of the bird world, lay their eggs in the nests of other solitary bees and wasps. Their ravenous offspring devour the food supply of the raided nest and the original young along with it.

The Cicada Killer is the giant among American wasps. In midsummer, after spending their entire lives alone and underground, the black and yellow adults emerge and mate.

forms its complex routine -- very exactly and successfully without any previous experience.

Unlike most wasps which store insects and spiders to feed their young, the solitary bees prepare a pabulum of honey and pollen to nourish their infants. Each species seems to have its own particular formula for making this beebeef. While gathering this nectar and pollen, a multitude of kinds of bees, both large and small, play a leading role in the cross-pollination of flowers.

Solitary bees always hunt a hidey-hole for a nursery. Most kinds, such as the Sweat Bees, burrow in soil, some use beetle burrows in wood, mud dauber nests or holes in porous rock--also hollow plant stems, empty snail shells and knotholes.

The Great Carpenter Bee, often mistaken for a bumblebee, chisels long branching tunnels in fence posts and building timbers. At the end of each burrow it seals off a blob of beebeef and an egg with a partition of cemented wood chips.

Final plans were made for the eighth grade graduation dinner party, and also for the graduation exercises. The graduation dinner party will be held at the Valley View Farm on Thursday, May 31.

The graduation exercises will be held at the Lincoln-Way Auditorium on Friday evening, June 1, at 8 o'clock.

The annual PTG Picnic will be held at the Mokena park on Sunday afternoon, June 3, at 12:30. Anyone attending the picnic may either bring food and add it to the general food table and eat a "pot luck" meal, or you may bring your own food for your family and eat with your own group.

The Youth Movement, an organization originated to provide the young people of the Summit Hill School District with their own club, held its first regular meeting at the Summit Hill school on Monday evening, May 14.

There was a short business meeting, which includes the choosing of temporary officers, the formation of committees, and the amount and manner of payment of dues. There were 32 young people present for this first meeting.

The meetings will be held on the second and fourth Monday evenings from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. at the Summit Hill school. Membership is open to all young people from the age of 13 to 18.

The other requirement for membership is residence in the Summit Hill school district.

It was decided that there would be a membership dues of $2 per year payable at the rate of $1 every six months. There will be membership cards issued. The next meeting will be held at the school on Monday evening, May 28.

There were several committees set up at the meeting including ways and means, membership, clean-up, and rules. The rules committee will draft a set of rules for the organization to be presented at the next meeting, if possible.

After each SHORT business meeting there will be a long dance session for the young people. The major object of the organization will be the social, rather than the business aim. There is a phonograph available for the meetings, and records furnished by the young people themselves.

While there are chaperones, as required by the school board, the young people are in charge of the workings of the group; and they will decide on activities and projects as they see fit.

A special navy recruit company, the "Navy 1962 White Sox Special Company" is being formed, according to Chief Boatswain Mate Ivan J. Verbeckmoes, recruiter in charge of the Joliet navy recruiting station. This special company, which is being formed by the navy in cooperation with the Chicago White Sox Baseball club, will be composed of young men from the Chicago recruiting district. This district includes most of Illinois, the southeastern part of Wisconsin and the northwestern part of Indiana.

Men who enlist as members of this special company will be sworn in at the navy recruiting station, Chicago May 21. They will train at great lakes.

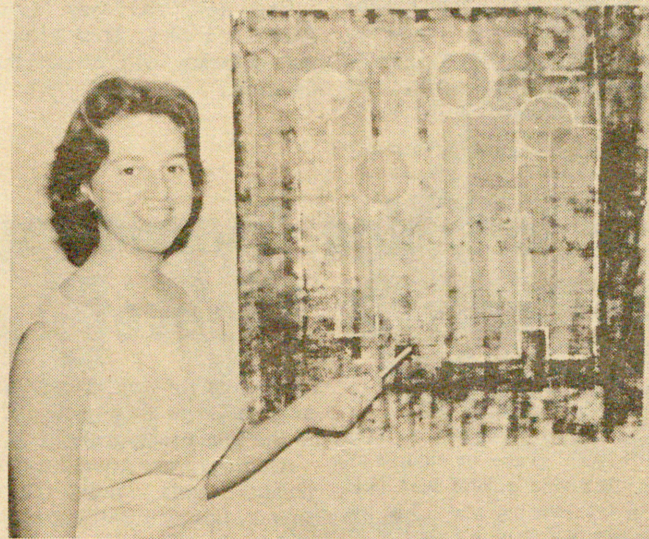

In their eighth week of training, the White Sox Company go to Comiskey Park (July 17) as special guests of the ball club. Prior to the game between the Sox and the Washington Senators, the White Sox Company will perform.

This will provide these recruits the opportunity to demonstrate the outstanding military training which they have received in only eight weeks of recruit training.

The Chief explained that the special White Sox Company offers young men from this area the opportunity to enlist in the Navy, train and return home on recruit leave with their friends.

The 1962 White Sox Company is the first of its kind from this area in recent years. Young men interested in learning more about this special company may contact Chief Verbeckmoes at the Joliet post office, Scott and Clinton Streets.

Mrs. Roath, the kindergarten teacher, along with Mrs. Clark of Tinley Gardens, and Mrs. Dickerson, Mrs. Tanis, and Mrs. Maschmeyer, accompanied the children on the trip. The children went to the Children's Zoo while they were there. The youngsters were fascinated by the cow with her calf and the baby elephant who drinks from a bottle. There were also sheep, a llama, a peacock, and a baby camel for the children to view at close range and play with.

All in all the trip was considered by everyone to be successful. No one got lost! No one got sick on the bus, and everyone came home happy and tired.

GLAD TO BE BACK and if you are looking for an understatement this is it, Marijke van den Nouwland, (center) exchange student from Belgium at Lincoln-Way high school who has been hospitalized since Feb. 3, was released from Silver Cross Hospital last Wednesday and on Thursday night made her return to school to take part in the festivities attending the annual junior-senior banquet. Marijke lost a foot in the accident that put her in the hospital but she isn't downhearted. She is quite a happy person. At the left is Jackie Zitter and on the right is Judy Bailey, whose Manhattan home is Marijke's home while she is in America. Marijke is to be fitted with an artificial foot in September and will return to Belgium in November, according to present plans. (Semmler Press photo)

Flying Physicians Will Assist Disaster Areas

Some 2,000 physicians throughout the country have formed a unique disaster organization which is designed to fly emergency medical assistance to stricken areas in the event of a national emergency or widespread disaster, according to "Aerospace" official publication of the Aerospace Industries Association of America, Inc.

The physicians, members of the Flying Physicians Association, are those doctors who fly their own planes. The medical profession, like so many other segments of government and industry, is turning to light planes as a means of expanding its field of activity and increasing its service to the public.

Dr. Frank H. Coble of Richmond, Ind., chairman of the FPA Disaster program, says the 2,000 enrolled physicians, piloting their own planes and carrying medical supplies and additional medical personnel, are capable of converging on a disaster area in a matter of hours or even minutes to bring emergency relief until regular medical facilities can be established.

Their plan has the cooperation of the American Medical Association, the Federal Civil Defense officials, the Department of Public Health and the Federal Aviation Agency.

Offer Home Economics Scholarships Thru 4-H

Nine college scholarships valued at $6,300 await coeds planning to major in home economics during their junior and senior years. Only present or former 4-H club members enrolled in an accredited college in the fall of 1962 are eligible.

The 1962 recipients will be announced during National 4-H Club Congress in November, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

Applications for the scholarships are made through the state 4-H club leader. One candidate will be selected from the state to compete nationally for a home economics scholarship, a National Committee spokesman said.

A breakdown of the nine scholarships and the sponsors is as follows:

Two $800 scholarships given by Sunbeam Corporation, Chicago; two by Sperry and Hutchinson Company, New York; two by Whirlpool Foundation of the Whirlpool Corporation, Benton Harbor, Mich.; three
